Pre-School Literacy/Numeracy Sessions

The Pre-School literacy / numeracy sessions are parent-child orientated and are set up as center activities. Parent and child rotate through a variety of literacy/numeracy centers based on a particular theme for that day. Each session has between 30 and 35 different centers for parents and their children to participate in together. Each center focuses on specific literacy and numeracy skills recommend for preschool aged children. Many suggestions from the Occupational and Physical therapists are also included in these centers. These sessions run once per month and are located in the Kindergarten classroom in Austin Elementary School. All children receive a book and activities to use at home. Pre-registration is required for the Literacy/Numeracy sessions. Many months had 25- 35 preschool children in attendance.
